2. INTRODUCTION

There are a lot of charity money, BUT...

We all understand the importance of global charities, with many billions of budgets and strategy for the salvation of mankind, but you will agree that for strategic programs, global projects for the salvation of mankind as a whole, no one notices one needy person does not see problems and difficulties his family and his loved ones.

Although, we all have a person in our environment who needs help. Perhaps it is the mother, sister or brother of your work colleague, maybe a childhood friend or even a neighbor. We all have heard or even faced with the problem of fundraising, the bureaucracy of funds and the ever-pressing deadlines when "tomorrow" may already be too late. At the same time, global funds do not deal with your problems - They save the world!

The globality of salvation is good, BUT...

After all every life and every person are matters. Each person gives a new life, and that in turn gives the next one. Therefore, the loss of one person is not only the loss of his family and the grief of loved ones; it is a possible loss of a new life that can improve this world in the future.

If we take into account this problem, we will see that at least one million people who need serious support, then, taking into account his family and people close to him, as a result, we already get five to seven million people who limit themselves in order to help. And if there are ten or thirty million of these people, what percentage of the world's population is fighting for the lives of their loved ones.

The current model of charity is archaic ...

Model charities has not changed for many decades, where: - the Human factor in decision-making, "manual" control and the lack of hardware-based analysis of "BIG DATE", large expenses (deductions) from the amount of the charitable donations (from 15 to 45%), a huge time spent on aid, the fear of inter-state relations and other things that havn't changed over this time.

The 21st century is the century of digitalization

Nowadays we have access to technologies that are limitless in terms of territorial binding, data collection and analysis, money transfers and the availability of medicine, anywhere in the world. The goal of the project is to use these technologies as efficiently as possible by building a sustainable Ecosystem based on data analysis.

The idea of the project was born at the end of 2020. The primary concept as a project "WCE.LIFE" was found already at the beginning of 2021, by the summer a clear concept and an approximate architecture of the project ecosystem was formed. Then the painstaking work on the elaboration of the project began. More than 50 people from different countries were involved in the project in order to analyze internal features, regulations and interaction with organizations engaged in areas directly related to the project, in particular medical and social institutions, charitable organizations, companies producing medical goods. The data obtained were generalized and systematized, a unified approach to the Ecosystem was developed. At the end of the summer of 2021, the "WCE" token was released, which remained motionless for six months. Now we are ready to offer the world a new transformation of charity that will help millions of people around the world.

2. Do you know?

Most people lose confidence in charity. We are still faced with unscrupulous people who spend the money collected for fictional illnesses on their whims and there are quite a lot of them and the Internet is full of revelations. The WCE.LIFE project will eliminate this problem based on request processing and analysis using only direct payments to organizations involved in providing assistance and verified.
